Millie Mae Robinson Crowned International Junior Miss Teen 2025-2026

Millie Mae Robinson of the United Kingdom has been crowned the International Junior Miss (IJM) Teen International Queen, earning one of the most distinguished titles within the global IJM system. Representing her home country, Millie steps into her reign as a confident young woman, fashion innovator, and global role model. Supported by her mother, Mandy Robinson, she brings creativity, entrepreneurial spirit, and authenticity to her international title.

Millie is a self-employed fashion designer, already building an impressive career at a young age. Her work includes designing custom pageant outfits, many of which she creates through her own growing business. She combines art, fashion, and self-expression to encourage girls around the world to embrace their individuality. Her service initiative, Millie Mae's Mission, focuses on helping girls globally by using her platform as an influencer for good. She donates prom dresses and beauty products, inspiring girls to feel confident, beautiful, and empowered. Her mission emphasizes compassion, connection, and doing good through creativity and style.

As an international queen, Millie hopes to travel extensively during her reign. She told judges that her dream is to walk for Sherri Hill at New York Fashion Week, and she plans to build her brand, expand her platform, and continue documenting her entire year on YouTube for her growing audience. With a passion for fashion-forward expression and genuine positivity, she aims to continue inspiring girls worldwide while representing the IJM sisterhood with pride.

Millie chose International Junior Miss because IJM UK is the largest pageant for teens in the UK, and earning that title was a goal she worked extremely hard to reach. She loves that IJM celebrates authenticity and realness, empowering young women to shine as themselves rather than a polished version of who they think they need to be.

Her advice for future contestants: Watch her YouTube videos to see her real, unfiltered journey through IJM... a journey filled with hard work, sisterhood, and unforgettable memories. She encourages contenders to be themselves, enjoy the experience, and embrace every opportunity the system offers.
